

Farm Bills

Introduction

Oswestry Library holds a digitised collection of farm bills on DVD. The collection ranges from 1875 to 1940, spans four generations of people and three farms where they successively lived and worked, from the late 19th Century until the middle of the 20th century. The bills, many of which were originally kept on a metal spike, tell us much about farming activity. They also reveal much about the economic and business activity in the area close to the farms, which were near to Llanrhaeadr, Llanfylllyn and Morda. Other bills tell of activity further afield, in Manchester, Birmingham and Liverpool. Some show an international dimension. Importantly the bills also speak of domestic, social and religious life. Taken together the collection is an important resource for historians.

The Farms and The People

Maes-y-Bwch was the first of the three farms. Also known as Maes-y-Bwll it was tenanted by John and Mary Morris, who lived there with their son David. Situated close to the River Rhaeadr, it lies about half-way between Llanrhaeadr and Pistyll Rhaeadr. Remote now, it must have seemed even more so late in the nineteenth century. While there is no record of the tenancy in the bills, it was occupied by the Morrisises from about the mid 1870's to the late 1880's.

Llanerch was the second of the three farms. It also appears as Llanerch y Awr, Llanerch a Awr and Llanrach. Llanerch lies roughly half-way between Llanfyllin and Llanrhaeadr. It appears to have been tenanted initially by David and his mother, the tenancy beginning in the late 1880s. It can be surmised that David became the sole tenant. Rent receipts from 1903 until 1919 show he paid the rent at that time.

Bryn y Mapisis, was the third farm. It lay in Morda some two miles south of Oswestry and was bought on mortgage by David Morris in 1919.

Marriages and Children

David, son of John and Mary Morris, first married Elizabeth Elinor Owens. There were two children of this first marriage, a daughter Jane Mary and a son Edward who died in his teens. When David married a second time, after the death of his first wife, his new bride was Eliza Jones. There were no children of this second marriage.

Jane Mary Morris, daughter of David's first marriage, married Robert Lloyd Jones who later farmed Bryn y Mapsis. They had two children, Charles Richard Jones and Ella Elizabeth Elinor Jones. In September 1950 Ella Elizabeth Elinor married Charles Stephen Morris and they continued to live and work at Bryn y Mapsis until their retirement.

Recording and Accessing The Bills

The bills have been digitised by volunteers in the Oswestry Family and Local History Group. Many of the bills show the holes made by the spike. Before the involvement of the group the bills had been removed from the spike and some effort made to classify them. The classification was far from complete but endeavoured to show, for example, the purchase of farm supplies and dealings with local tradespeople over time. This attempted classification disrupted the chronological order.

The bills as originally received

It was decided to place the previously classified bills in their chronological order by trade/business. All of the remaining bills were then organised chronologically. As a next step all of the bills were digitally organised by trade/business and in year order. A DVD was then made which shows the bills in trade/business and year order. A folder containing a limited number of hard copies has also been created. Both the DVD and the folder can be viewed at Oswestry library.

A Sample of the Bills Spanning from 1875 to 1940

Between them this small sample of bills tells that Welsh was the medium of much oral and written communication. Farmers bought services from other specialists, for example from smiths and wheelwrights. Estate valuation was one task following bereavement. The extent of stamp duty and the range of goods and services to which it applied is illustrated. There is much more besides.

Thanks

The bills have been returned to their owner, Mrs Ella Elizabeth Elinor Morris. The group is grateful to her for allowing and encouraging the digitisation of the bills. She and her husband gave information which clarified who was who at each farm. Had they not done so it would not have been possible to work out family relationships. Sadly there are no photographs of these enterprising and industrious people about whom information was given. Happily the treasury of bills conveys many images of the people and their lives.

Addendum July 2018

Having read this article on our website, Mr. Steve Cook got in touch from the U.S.A. and provided us with further information which had been given to his wife by Ella Morris. He is happy for us to make this information available and I have attached the family tree and photographs provided below. We are very grateful to him and his wife for sharing this with us.
